Giving Tuesday 2023

Everyone has something to give and every act of generosity counts.

“GivingTuesday reimagines a world built upon shared humanity and generosity.”

The challenge in fundraising for most nonprofits is to capture the attention of those around us and tell our story. There is no shortage of need in the world. It can be a difficult choice as to who or what to support.

Giving Tuesday is 5 weeks from today. Hope Now has been a part of this world “Giving Day” for many years now. We are part of a global family filled with people changing the lives of those with less. We continue to share stories, along with millions of others. The statistics are overwhelming and can often overshadow the one. The one child who will not go hungry, the one child who will have access to a proper education, the one child who will not be homeless.

Hope Now has one primary goal - to educate our kids so they can build an adult life and thrive. This past year has been an exciting one with more kids in college and vocational school than K12 for the first time. College costs have increased more than 50%, which means our budget has increased. We have had 3 marriages this year and several kids have transitioned to an adult life after graduating from college.

Change is a constant. We continue to adapt to whatever comes. With the support of our community partnerships and our “giving” family, we will meet the needs of our kids as they evolve and grow into the adult life they dream of. This Giving Tuesday our goal is to raise $5,000 and more monthly supporters.
